After flying neck and neck for more than 257,000 yards, R. B. Lloyd's Little Rocket beat out F. E. Dismar's pigeon in the last seventy-five yards of the race from Danville, Va., yesterday. For the third successive time the birds were met by headwinds, but nevertheless made good time. The first arrival was at 1:30 p.m., and homed to its cote in Ballston, Va. The entry and average speed per minute of the first return to each loft follows:

DETROIT'S PENNANT CHANCES DWINDLE

Boston Scheduled for Thirteen Games, Tigers for Only Nine More.

BERTH IN FIRST DIVISION FOR GRIFFMEN DOUBTFUL

Must Win Consistently During Remainder of Season to Beat Out Yankees and Browns.

BY J. ED GRILLO.

While, of course, one defeat does not eliminate Detroit from the pennant race, the fact that Daus, Jennings' best pitcher, was hit safely ten times in eight innings and wrecked five Red Sox makes it look doubtful if the other Tiger pitchers will be able to stop the Carriers in the next two games. Two victories out of three games would be necessary for Detroit to have a good chance to continue to be a contender in the race. If Boston wins two out of the three games scheduled it will look pretty bad for the scheduled crew, for with Walter Johnson to pitch two of the four games the Nationals are to play there, and Thomas one of the other two, it is not unlikely that the Griffmen will give Detroit a severe setback, for Johnson is sure to be in better form, with cool weather prevailing, than he has been on any previous occasion he has faced the Tigers in Detroit this year, where the Griffmen have yet to win a game.

One advantage for the Red Sox is that they have thirteen more games to play, as against nine scheduled for Detroit. Boston goes to Cleveland for four games, after finishing at Detroit, and the Indians are not likely to win a game from them, because Fohl has no pitchers he can expect to beat the Red Sox with at this stage of the race. The Yankees have four games to play with Boston at Boston, and Philadelphia will wind up the season there with three games. Detroit, after playing four games with the Nationals, goes to St. Louis for three, and closes its season there October 1. It is hard to see how the Boston team can lose with this advantage.

With Jim Scott back in the Chicago line-up, there still is hope for the White Sox to land on top. It is their only hope, for Scott has been working out regularly and will be in good shape, now that he is taking good care of himself.

Six weeks under suspension without pay is punishment enough, and as his recent offense was his first since he has been a member of the team, and conditions demand his assistance, Comiskey is not to be blamed for relenting and giving Scott a chance to redeem himself.

There still is a chance for the Griffmen to finish in the first division, though it will take a consistent winning streak to do it. St. Louis and Cleveland are not going very well these days. The Nationals beat the Browns two out of three, and started their series in Cleveland yesterday with a victory in which Fohl had to use four of his pitchers. Most of the Indians' pitchers who were strong early in the season have lost their form because they have been overworked, and there should be a good chance for the Nationals to clean up with them.

The Yankees may not take any more games from St. Louis. They then have four games to play with the White Sox in Chicago, and with Jim Scott back in the game they are apt to have a hard time stopping the Sox. Then it would not be at all surprising if the team made a good showing at Detroit, for Griffith will put his best team in the field while facing the Tigers. According to a report from Cleveland both Rice and McBride will be in the line-up in those games.

If the New York Giants can continue their remarkable winning streak for the remainder of the season it would be not at all surprising if they won the pennant. Such a thing is improbable, but mathematically it is possible. The McGraw aggregation still has fourteen games to play, none of which is with the Phillies. Chicago plays three games, they have four with St. Louis, three with the Braves and four with Brooklyn.

While it was announced that the first world series probably would be played October 7, which is a Saturday, that probably was planned figuring that one of the western teams would win the American League pennant, and would win the toss for the opening game, thus making it possible to play the first two games Saturday and Sunday. But if this does not happen and the series is played in the usual way, a good guess that the series will be started October 6, Friday, and two games played before a shift is made.

Connie Mack has a team which cannot be toyed with. He demonstrated that in the three games in Detroit, which the Mackmen won one and lost the other two by a single run. Yesterday in Chicago the White Sox had to stage a batting rally in the final inning, when they drove in three runs and won the game by a single run.

Mack may be able to win a game or two from the Sox for he is getting good pitching, and his team is playing intelligent ball and hitting timely in most of its games.

Clyde Milan was the demon slugger yesterday, with a double and two singles out of five times up, besides scoring two runs.

Dodgers Hold Two-Game Lead Over the Phillies

Two games now separate the Phillies from the Dodgers, while the Braves crawled up within less than two points of the Phils. While Brooklyn was beating the Reds and the Braves were losing to the Phils' misplays, beat Alexander, the Dodgers have sixteen games to play, while the Braves have only four. The standing of the three leaders follows:

Brooklyn..... Won. Lost. Pct.
Philadelphia..... 50 58 .5823
Boston..... 78 55 .5848

Red Sox Now in Front by One-Game Margin

The Red Sox bettered their first place position by defeating the Tigers in the first game of the important series yesterday, and increased their lead to a few points more than one full game over the Tigers. The White Sox won, and trail the leaders by a few points more than a game and a half. The Red Sox have thirteen more games, the Tigers eleven and the White Sox ten.

The standing of the three leaders follows:

Boston..... Won. Lost. Pct.
Detroit..... 52 55 .5818
Cleveland..... 58 52 .5818

GRIFFMEN HIT WELL

Special Dispatch to The Star.

CLEVELAND, September 20.—Ability to hit the ball when men were on the bases gave the Nationals an easy victory over the Cleveland Indians in the opening game of the series here yesterday by the score of 9 to 6.

The contest was loosely played, but abounded in free hitting by both clubs, and Cleveland made things lively by unceremoniously knocking three runs before Gallia could pull himself together and retire the side.

Griff started Gallia, and the Texan, while hit hard in spots, had the better of the four twirlers sent up by Manager Fohl. Cleveland's pitching staff is very much shot to pieces. Fohl has sent Coveleski home and Morton does not seem to have much stuff on the ball, while Bagby is overworked and shows it.

Bagby and Morton Easy.

It was off Bagby and Morton that the Nationals got their runs, raking Bagby's offerings in the first inning and hitting Morton so hard in the seventh that he was forced to quit under fire. After Leonard had gone in the first inning Foster and Milan singled, Shanks was hit by a pitched ball, and when Judge smashed to the right field fence Foster, Milan and Shanks raced home.

The Indians managed to pull down two runs in the fifth, when Gallia suddenly developed wild streak, but it was placed beyond Cleveland's reach in the seventh, when Morton, who whiffed Bagby, wild in addition was batted all over the lot.

Milan opened the seventh with a ringing double to left field. Smith bunt out Milan on third. Jamieson, pinch-hitting for Shanks, was given a base on balls and Judge also walked, filling the bases. Morgan shot a single to center, scoring Milan and Smith, but when Williams was hit by a pitched ball, the Indians' lead was over the reins.

Bebe. Gallia hammered the first ball pitched to center. Iris Speaker let the ball get away from him and before it could be returned Judge, Morgan and Williams were across the plate.

Leonard fanned, but Foster's single scored Gallia with Washington's sixth run. Gallia let down perceptively in the eighth and ninth, with the result that he was hit hard, but he was able to pull out of a tight hole in the ninth by retiring Turner and O'Neil while Cleveland runners occupied first and second, nipping a promising rally in the bud. ## MENOSKY READY TO PLAY

Joins Griffmen in Cleveland—Johnson to Pitch Two Games Against Tigers.

Special Dispatch to The Star.

CLEVELAND, September 20.—Walter Johnson will not pitch against the Indians here, but will be saved for the Detroit series, starting in the Michigan city next Friday, according to Manager Griffith.

It seems that the Washington club has been criticised for not using Johnson against the Chicago White Sox and the foolish claim made that Griffith was helping Comiskey win the pennant. As a matter of fact Johnson pitched against the Red Sox the day before the Nationals pulled into Chicago, and as only two games were played Griffith would not work Johnson out of turn.

"There are two reasons why I intend to pitch Walter against the Tigers in the first and final games of the series. We have not won a single game from this club on the Detroit grounds and I want to clean up if I can. Incidentally, I propose to play my strongest combination against the pennant contenders," the manager said today.

Griff will not only pitch Johnson twice against the Tigers but he will more than likely have Rice in the outfield and McBride at shortstop.

Mike Menosky, the highly touted outfielder purchased from the Minneapolis club of the American Association, arrived on a late train last night from Toledo, where the Millers finished up a series.

"I was supposed to get away in time to report Tuesday," said Menosky, "but Cantonium made me wait another day. I am glad of the chance to go with the Washington club and will do my best."

In yesterday's game against Toledo Menosky came across with a single, double and triple, and those who have followed his work this season declare he is easily the best prospect in the American Association.

Menosky is a fine-looking chap. He weighs 185 pounds and stands five feet eleven inches. He is fast as a streak and one of those clean-up hitters.

It has been said in some quarters that Menosky is a Pole, but according to the player himself he is of Austro-German parentage and was born in the United States. Menosky is a college man, quiet and unassuming.

It will be either Jim Shaw or Doc Ayers in the box against Cleveland today, while "Top Boy" Smith, the Indians' recruit from New Orleans, will likely oppose.

The Nationals should have little difficulty making a clean sweep of the present series, for the reason that none of Lee Fohl's pitchers is in shape. The youngsters are too green for effective twirling, while the veterans have been worked so hard that they are about all in. Guy Morton yesterday did not have a think, and it is freely predicted in this town that Morton cannot come back next season.

Menosky will be played in left field this afternoon and Howard Shanks will either warm the bench or be given a trial at short.

Griff today said that in his opinion Howard Shanks is the only logical successor to George McBride, and that the Washington fans need not be surprised if the Nationals took to the field next spring with Shanks holding down that position.

Joe Leonard and Elmer Smith both were given a rousing ovation by the crowd when they came to bat yesterday of a two-bagger in the fifth, when neither was able to do. Chic Gandil made a sensational back-liver a safe hit, but Smith was robbed hand stop of a wicked grounder.
